OBITUARY NOTICE OF HAWKINS BROWN, M. D.

In presenting a memorial notice of the late Dr. Brown, the caution conveyed in the good old adage, "de mortuis nil nisi bonum" seems altogether superfluous, for certainly nothing praiseworthy could be said of him, nothing lovely and of good report, that would not find a ready echo in the hearts of all who knew him. He possessed an eminent degree of those gentle and engaging qualities of mind and character which endeared him to all with whom he came into intimate relations. The sad circumstances of his taking off, the calm courage, the admirable patience and wonderful cheerfulness he displayed under the infliction of a long and painful illness, lent a peculiar tenderness to the sorrow with which the announcement of his death was received. Dr. Hawkins Brown was born in Lincoln county, near Hustonville on Nov. 12, 1831. Few particulars of Dr. Brown's early life are accessible to me. He received his preliminary education in Stanford and at the parochial school in his native village. After being prepared for college by Mr. Charles Barnes, he entered the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, from which institution he received his diploma in 1850. He returned at once to his native village, where he continued to reside until his death, which occurred at 3 A. M. Tuesday, Dec. 1st, from angina pectoris. Early in 1859 he was compelled by the rapid and serious onsets of a disease, from which he had suffered for some years, to relinquish his active practice and from that time until his death he was for the most part confined to his room. Dr. Brown was pre-eminently a medical society man. He was associated with numerous medical organizations. He was a member of the American Medical Association for more than 25 years and was once its vice president; of the Kentucky State Medical Association and was the president at its meeting held in Louisville in 1893; of the Central Kentucky Medical Association, of which he had the distinction of being elected twice to the presidency; of the Lincoln County Medical Society, he was a charter member at its organization in 1868, twice its president and remained an active member until the past few months. His relation with his home county medical society was the last link which bound him to his dearly beloved professional life. His interest in all things relating to its advancement and improvement continued a ruling passion, strong even to the day of his death. Dr. Brown made few notable contributions to medical literature. He had little taste for literary composition and the engrossing demands of a large practice left him little leisure for this kind of work. He was ever ready to contribute his share to the discussion of papers and clinical cases presented before the medical societies of which he was a member. He was essentially a progressive man, always eager to lay hold of new modes of treatment. In his relation with his professional brethren Dr. Brown was upright, honorable and just. Envy, malice and uncharitableness were foreign to his nature. He was ever disposed to add to, rather than detract from, the good name and fame of a brother practitioner. Few men of so positive a nature have maintained such extended professional relations and aroused so few antagonisms. He had no enemies. He was gentle and courteous in his manners, endowed with great natural kindness of heart and a ready, overwhelming sympathy which at once engaged the confidence of his patients and led them to regard him, not only as a physician, but as a friend. To many of his patients he was their confidant and adviser, not only in matters relating to their health, but in their material interests as well. The helpful, human side of his nature was ever turned to those who sought his advice. He was fortunate in the possession of a cheerful, sanguine temperament. His buoyancy of spirit was infectious. His cordial greeting, his cheery words and his bright, confident manner diffused an atmosphere of sunshine in the sick room and inspired hope in the hearts of his patients. Although he was attentive to the business aspects of his profession, he did not regard the practice of medicine in the light of a money-making calling. The ingratitude and lack of appreciation which he, like all professional men, sometimes encountered, did not sour his nature or make him misanthropic. He preserved in a singular degree the freshness of his feelings and fine faith in human nature to the end of his life. In this brief, but imperfect sketch of our late associate, we have the record of a life not remarkable for its incidents and achievements, but which illustrates in no ordinary degree those finer virtues and graces which adorn our humanity, and those qualities which ennoble and dignify our profession. A character so faithful to truth and rectitude must ever hold a dear place in our memories.

FLEMINGSBURG.

Since we can not write Kingsville items of news this week, we will try to write up Flemingsburg. We have been the guest of our aunt, Mrs. Milford Overly, for the past week and find the town almost, if not quite the equal of Stanford. In fact it is almost a counterpart of Lincoln's county seat in location, and then the people, individually and collectively impress us as having many characteristics similar to the good people of Stanford, which shows how very favorably impressed we are with our present surroundings. Flemingsburg, which is the county seat of Fleming, located in the northeastern part of the State, is more than 100 years old, but doesn't look its age by any means. It is not dilapidated. Its public buildings are all convenient and kept in good repair. Its streets are broad and well paved, its sidewalks of brick and concrete, are kept in much better repair, than we admit it is—than even the dear old sidewalks of Kingsville, our home town. It has five church buildings (white) all quite handsome structures, and each occupied by a regular pastor, a large church membership and a good Sunday school. The Christian church is exceptionally beautiful and well equipped for the size of the city. It is built of tin (which was preferable to silver or gold.) There are three hotels, two banks, two printing offices, more than 30 stores of all kinds, a number of medicine shops, a splendid graded school, a large flouring mill and lumber yard, four livery stables, Odd Fellows and Masonic buildings and many handsome houses, offices and dwellings. The various trades and professions seem to be pretty well represented by the people of Flemingsburg. There are five ministers, five doctors, 13 lawyers, several druggists, two editors, a dozen teachers, three dentists, besides merchants, clerks, machinists, etc. Altogether Flemingsburg (to quote from one of its most substantial citizens and good democrats) "is one of the biggest cities of its size and the youngest of its age to be found anywhere in the Blue Grass State." ELIZABETH M. CREIGHTON.

Didn't Like The East Room.

"Is it solid gold?" The eager questioner was a country woman, a member of a crowd which a railroad agent was piloting through the East Room of the White House. She pointed to the piano with the gold leaf coating as she asked the question. The guide attempted to evade the woman's question by referring to the seals of the 13 original States which adorn the sides of the instrument, and explained that it was the one hundred thousandth piano manufactured by a prominent American firm. "Is it solid gold?" the woman interposed. Still the guide did not answer. "You will notice that there are 13 settings in this room, one for each of the original States," he continued. "But I want to know whether the piano is solid gold," the woman insisted. "No madam, it is not solid gold," the guide remarked with a slight display of temper. "But," the woman retorted, "I've seen calliopes that looked better and I had hoped that it had value to recommend it. When there's only one real piece of furniture in a room of this size a person sort of expects that it will be worth coming to see. I can't find anything fine about the room but the view you get from the South windows."

Fight Will be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their eyes against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Neill of Beall, Miss. has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her." Guaranteed by all druggists. Price 50c, and $1. Trial bottle free.

MR. JOHN FOX, JR.

Among the story writers that have compelled public attention in recent years, none have won more rapidly an enviable reputation than has John Fox, Jr. As a reader and lecturer, Mr. Fox has proven himself a pronounced success. His reading of the mountain dialect is simple and unaffected and rings as true to the mountaineer as does Thomas Nelson Page's Negro dialect to the Negro. There is a quality of sympathy in his voice and a personal magnetism about him that holds attention from the beginning to the close of his lectures and readings. Of this distinguished young Kentuckian, James Lane Allen says in part: "The ranks of American story writers and the platform of American readers and lecturers have been enriched by the accession of Mr. John Fox, Jr., who at the very outset of public career, shows the wealth of his resources and the versatility of his powers. His stories have been widely and wisely accepted as among the most virile, original and variously effective pieces of literary art that have come from the living writers of the South. His delightful readings of these stories in New York City, Brooklyn, Washington, at Vassar College, in Louisville and elsewhere have deepened the impression of their humor and their tragic intensity. Not only is he a very beautiful reader, but he is the first public reader of the dialect of the Kentucky and Tennessee mountaineers that has yet appeared. He lived several years among the native folks, talked with them, studied them, so that as a result of his gifts, experience and his aims combined, this form of the American story should, under his control, be revealed for the first time in its entire fidelity to truth and nature."

The press bestows unstinted praise upon Mr. Fox wherever he has been or where his stories have gone. "Mr. Fox," says the Chicago Inter Ocean, "impressed his audience with the fact that he is a man of strong intellectual qualities, of a keen sense of humor, a subtle analyst of the qualities that mark men and the peculiarities that mark their manners, speech, habits and mode of living. He is a strikingly fine impersonator of character, and above all a rare writer who can tell what he has to tell in a manner at once novel, entertaining and pleasing." At the nation's capital he received a cordial welcome. "Quite the most enjoyable affair of the kind that has taken place in Washington this winter," says the Washington Post, "was the lecture and reading by Mr. Fox at the Washington Club on Tuesday afternoon." Mr. Fox is one of the obvious exceptions to the rule. "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Of him the Lexington Herald says: "The audience which greeted Mr. Fox was made up of the best literary element of Lexington. The humor and pathos of these mountaineers—transcribed as few can give them—the personal charm of the author and his popularity here, where he is widely known, made the entertainment a most delightful one in every sense." Under the auspices of the Stanford Lyceum Club Mr. Fox will appear at Walton's Opera House Dec. 8th. A large Stanford audience should greet him and avail themselves of so rare a privilege.

LIBERTY.

E. W. Kidd is confined to his room with rheumatism. D. G. Portman & Bros. are selling out their goods at cost. The youngsters are having a fine time on the fish pool skating. Sheriff Elliott has collected $13,000 of the $15,000 he has on his books. Nat Wilkinson has been suffering considerably lately with grip, but is better. John E. Sharp has moved from the country to town, occupying the Pierce property. We beg pardon for the long state of lethargy, and promise not to take another one of Old Rip's long naps. Chas. Phillips was at Duane's last Wednesday night at the Woodmen's Camp Meeting, which was organized recently. Prof. I. S. Flanigan and assistant, Henry Wesley, closed the public school Friday. Prof. Flanigan is an excellent teacher and has advanced the pupils rapidly. M. K. Humphrey and Os Bowman are hunting in the Mt. Olivet section this week. Charley Montgomery spent Thanksgiving in Lexington and Paris, returning Monday with the broadest smile we ever saw. Drummer Joe P. Wilkinson made a tour in the Western part of his district this week. Dick Wilkinson is preparing to move to town. He will occupy the George Stone property. Dr. I. C. Dye, of this place, has returned home after visiting relatives in Indiana. Circuit Clerk-elect Jason Wesley is assisting the county clerk. T. J. Phillips was down home Sunday from Hustonville, where he is engaged in the Hustonville Roller Mills.

NEWS NOTES.

Three lives were lost by a collision between tugs off Ellis Island. Bruce Northcutt, Deputy Sheriff, committed suicide at Covington. Maj. Charles E. Kilbourne, U. S. A., died on a train as it neared Chicago. John L. Scott, the oldest and one of the best-known lawyers of Frankfort, is dead. Burglars at Birmingham, Marshall county, stole $1,178 from H. B. Ducon, a timber buyer. The big Catholic University at Ottawa, Ont., was destroyed by fire. The loss will reach $250,000. Mrs. Wilson Swearingen, aged 33 years, was burned to death at her home in Simpson county. A big demand for Kentucky corn has been created by the re entrance of Baltimore as a chief export city. A man who never took over two small drinks a day died in Bellevue Hospital, New York, of alcoholism. The entire crew of a Pennsylvania railroad freight train was killed by the explosion of dynamite at Dover, Del. Auditor's Agent Albritton has filed suit against 51 citizens of Carroll county for back taxes aggregating $1,000,000. The court of appeals ordered a new trial for J. W. Beas, of Lexington, sentenced to death for murdering Martha Martin. The English House of Lords decided that women are debarred by their sex from becoming qualified lawyers in England. H. C. Staymaster, an American missionary, and 23 natives were drowned by the capsizing of a boat on the Congo, in Central Africa. At Asheville, N. C., Dr. J. V. Jay, convicted of the murder of his three children, was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment at hard labor. Nearly 100 letters, threatening his life, have been received by Attorney Davis, counsel for the Chicago Aldermanic "graft" investigating committee.

William Goode, conductor in the yards of the Cincinnati Southern road, was run over and instantly killed by a switch engine in the yard at Lexington. The Western Union Telegraph messengers at Richmond, Va., struck against a reduction of wages. The company is filling their places with Negroes. Custer Gardner, in jail at Munfordville, charged with the assassination of S. B. Osborn and his son, David Osborn, of Hart county, strongly denies the charge. Gov. Beckham ordered the withdrawal of the State troops from Jackson, on the advice of Circuit Judge Redwine, who says their presence in Breathitt county is no longer needed. E. J. Howard, postmaster at Saltz, Harlan county, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $400 and serve six months in the London jail for violation of postal laws and regulations. The crime consisted first, in being deficient in his accounts with the government; second, in committing perjury by making false affidavits. Judge Koblesat in the United States district court at Chicago, appointed Fred H. Blount and Albert D. Currier receivers in bankruptcy for the property of John Alexander Dowle at Zion City, on petition of three creditors alleging an indebtedness of $1,160. The petitioners allege that Dowle is insolvent and has made preferential payments.

JOHN ALEXANDER DOWIE called a meeting of his followers in the tabernacle at Zion City for the purpose of starting a fund of $1,000,000 to pay off his indebtedness. The tabernacle was only about half filled and the responses to Dowie's tearful appeals were feeble. Receivers are in charge of the Zion City property and of one of Dowie's banks in Chicago, and experts are at work on the books with the object of preparing a statement of his financial status. It is believed his liabilities will reach $725,000, but the receivers express the belief that he may be able to pay off all his obligations in time.

THE annual report of Director Roberts shows that during the year the output of the three government mints in number of pieces was greater than any previous year. The pressure for small coins greatly reduced the stock of silver bullion. The reduced volume of gold, on the contrary, increased the stock of bullion of the yellow metal. The gold exports for the year were nearly $3,000,000 greater than the imports. A comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures for November shows a deficit of nearly $3,000,000 for the month.

AS usual, Gov. Beckham is right. The State should not be put to the expense of paying soldiers to do police duty. There is a sufficient number of good citizens in Jackson to protect life and property and they should see that it is done. If the town is ever to resume its good name it must be done.

POLITICAL.

J. Wheeler Cambell, of Paducah, was nominated at Wickliffe by acclamation for State Senator to succeed McD. Ferguson.

A special session of the Louisiana Legislature will be held this month to pass laws which it is hoped will keep the boll weevil out of the State.

It is said in Washington that Perry Heath's resignation as secretary of the Republican National Committee would not be unacceptable to the President, but that Senator Hanna is opposed to Mr. Heath's stepping out while he is under fire.

Dr. Hunter wants a place on the Rivers and Harbors committee. He will be sworn in today. Former State Senator Ed Parker, of London, announced in Washington that he will be a candidate for the republican nomination for Congress in the 11th district next year.

Senator Morgan introduced a bill in the Senate authorizing the Canal Committee to investigate the part alleged to have been taken by the transcontinental railroads in regard to the isthmian canal matter. The Committee on Pacific Railroads is also authorized and required to make inquiry.

Senator McCreary, chairman of the Goebel Monument Commission, has been informed by W. M. Adams, of Lexington, who is doing the granite work on the monument, and Maret, of New York, who is to make the bronze statue of the late governor, that the clay model is ready for the inspection of the committee.

Gum Shoe Hunter, who has drawn blameless to Washington and is now drawing his "per diem per day," as the late Senator Debow would say, will raise himself to the estimation of the honorable men of both parties if he will see that Collector Craft and U. S. Marshal Sharp walk the plank as soon as possible. Such seeming traitors deserve immediate decapitation.—Lexington Democrat.

HUSTONVILLE.

Cowan & McCormack shipped Wednesday two car loads of export cattle to Jersey City. This being a lot of very fine cattle, they went with them to see that they brought a fine price.

The Weatherford Hotel, under the able management of J. G. Weatherford and wife, whose fame in this line extends far beyond the confines of Kentucky, will be ready to care for the travelling public next Monday.

Late advice from Mr. L. A. Farless' home, the scene of the late spiritual phenomena, is a return of rappings inside as well as outside the house, together with other manifestations not heretofore enacted in connection with this remarkable case.

A building committee consisting of Messrs. Wm. Myers, J. W. Hocker and Charles Wheeler has been appointed by the board of trustees for the purpose of inspecting plans and specifications of prospective builders and issuing permits to all that meet their approval. All those interested will govern themselves accordingly.

C. Rod McCormack and wife have taken rooms at Mrs. Bogle's for the winter. Mrs. E. J. Willis, nee Bennett, of Hopkinsville, is visiting Mrs. T. J. Robinson on Danville avenue. Her husband, Elder E. J. Willis, is pastor of the Christian church in that city, which pulpit was for many years ably filled by the Rev. E. L. Powell, now of First Christian church, Louisville.

On the 12th day of November, 1831, near this city, Dr. Hawkins Brown first saw the light of day. His seeming untimely death on the morning of Dec. 1st has cast a gloom upon our entire community, the pallor of which reaches the heartstrings of sorrowing friends, the multiplicity of which we are unable to measure, for he had no enemies. He was kind and charitable to all, and although gone from our sight, he is still tenderly enshrined in our hearts and memories. His acts of charity were a distinguishing feature of his life. His faith prompted him to cast the anchor of his hope in Heaven, with a firm reliance on the promises of an immutable God and his soul had become so luminous with truth that the interior light and glow, blazed out through every loop and crevice of his being. Who can fill his place?

And steadily goes the procession on, jostling each other with faces wan, sometimes smiling to hide a care, bending beneath the burdens we bear. Fill the same little mound covers all in the end. The lover, sweetheart, the foe and friend, While the green waving grasses whisper and bend As the procession moves—steadily on.

LANCASTER.

The city council has given the water works contractors a month longer to finish laying the pipes and complete their undertaking. The lake is filling up rapidly so all will be ready for use in a week or two.

In one of the primary rooms in the Graded School Monday morning an accident occurred that in a minute more would have ended the life of Cora Perkins. The child was cold when she came to school, so stood too close to a red-hot stove, which in a few minutes had set her apron on fire and all was in a blaze in an instant. Some little boy who was standing near her threw cloaks around the child, thus saving her life. She was not seriously burned.

Messrs. Walker, Hudson, Louis Gill and Kenneth Herryman have returned to school at C. U. Messrs. Earl Ward and Willie Fox Logan have returned to State College. Misses Martha and Helen Gill, of Glendale, have returned after a visit to their sister, Miss Mary. Mrs. G. M. Patterson gave a delightful reception Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Mosher, of New York. Misses Mary Arnold and Lillie V. West have returned to school at Jessamine Institute. Miss Grace Russell has returned to Lexington after a visit to Miss Ethyl West. Miss Sara Bell Minor has returned to Hamilton College. Messrs. B. D. Herndon and Frank Marksbury attended the Richmond dance Wednesday evening. Miss Nellie Peyton visited friends in Lexington last week. Miss Florence Tanner, of McKinnoy, is the guest of the Misses Shugars, at Mason Hotel.

Circuit court adjourned last Saturday after being only five days in session. The Lancaster bar passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, This being the last term of the Garrard county circuit court, at which the Hon. M. C. Sauley will preside, be it

Resolved, By the Lancaster bar, that we regret the retirement of so capable and upright a judge, and we desire to bear witness to his uniform fairness, splendid ability and high integrity, as well as to express our best wishes for his future happiness and success.

2. Hon. J. S. Owsley, Jr., is to also retire as Commonwealth's Attorney, and we desire to express our regrets, thank him for his fairness, and he carries with him our high esteem. May every success attend him in his future undertaking. Be it,

3. Resolved, That these resolutions be spread at large upon the order book of the said court and a copy furnished the newspapers of the district for publication.

Commissioner's Sale.

Lincoln Circuit Court.

R. S. Straded & Son, Plff., vs R. W. Wallin's Admr., Uft. Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a judgment and order of sale rendered in the above styled action rendered at the November term, 1903, the undersigned commissioner will on

SATURDAY, DEC 12, 1903,

On the premises in Crab Orchard, Ky., sell to the highest and best bidder at public outcry the following described personal property: The bar fixtures, consisting of an ice and beer cooler, counter, mirrors, beer pump, decanters, glasses, and other such articles and apparatus as was used by R. W. Wallin, deceased, in conducting his saloon business at Crab Orchard, Ky., together with his stock of liquors of all kinds contained in bottles, kegs, barrels, as well as said bottles, kegs and barrels.

The object of the sale is to satisfy the judgment of the plaintiff against the estate of the decedent for $500.00, with 6 per cent. interest from Feb. 16, 1903, and the costs of this action.

Terms.—Credit of 3 months; bond with approved security, bearing interest from date until paid, payable to the plaintiff; or the purchasers may, at their option, pay the purchase price at the time of said sale. Said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold as will satisfy plaintiff's said debt, interest and costs.

R. O. WARREN, Com'r.

THE Lincoln County Medical Society will meet in Stanford on Tuesday, Dec. 15. Dr. J. C. Barker will read a paper on "Diagnosis and Treatment of Pneumonia" and Dr. W. J. Edmiston one on "Capillary Bronchitis."

HOT DRINKS.—I am now prepared to serve the following hot drinks: Beef Tea, Tomato Bouillon, Clam Bouillon, Grape Kola and Chocolate. Call in and try them. Coca Cola always on hand. H. D. Campbell.

ON Friday next, Dec. 11th, Henry D. McClary will sell at auction at Turnersville, a lot of household and kitchen furniture, two bed room suits, a folding bed, a wardrobe, couch, organ, etc. Sale begins at 1 o'clock.

TAXES.—Unless you pay your State and county taxes on or before Thursday, Dec. 17, 1903, your property will be advertised in the INTERIOR JOURNAL and sold. I am ready to pay all county claims. M. S. Baughman, Sheriff.

DIED OF HER BURNS.—Mrs. Bony Gill, aged about 60, died at her home near Mason's Gap yesterday from the effects of burns she received Wednesday. Her clothing caught from the stove and she was horribly burned.

WE are much pleased that our efforts on opening day met with such expression of approval from so many of our friends and customers. We thank you for this encouragement and assure you that our future efforts shall be to serve you still better. John P. Jones.

BEAZLEY.—Charles Beazley, brother of James R. Beazley, the flyerman, died at St. Joseph, Mo., and was brought to Lancaster and interred Tuesday. He was the oldest son of the late James Beazley and was a steady, honorable and hardworking young man. He went West some 15 years ago.

THE Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church will on Saturday, Dec. 12, give a Bazaar and exchange in the sample rooms of the Veranda Hotel next door to Mueller, the jeweler. Cakes, home-made candies, etc., and all kinds of fancy articles will be for sale during the entire day. Mrs. R. B. Mabony, Sec.

THE opening Tuesday and Tuesday night at Mr. John P. Jones' store was largely attended and it was a success in every particular. The store was full of new and pretty goods, tastefully arranged and each visitor was presented with a button hole bouquet. At his next opening, Dec. 1, 1904, Mr. Jones will serve frappe to his guests.

JOHN FOX, Jr., author and reader, will appear at Walton's Opera House next Tuesday night, Dec. 8. Mr. Fox comes to us with the highest recommendations as a lecturer, and as a humorist he is without a peer. His limitation of mountain dialect is certainly a treat in itself. Tickets on sale now. Under management Stanford Lyceum Club.

MR. ED PRYTON showed his good judgment by deciding to remain in Lincoln county, rather than move to Mid-dlesboro, as he once thought he would. Wednesday he bought of W. H. Brady his stock of groceries, tinware, etc., and will continue the business at the old stand in the Myers House building. He asks a portion of the patronage of the people of Stanford and vicinity. Mr. Brady has not decided what he will do, but we'll wager it will not be long before he will engage in some paying business.

THE appellate court, Judge Hobson writing, reversed the Mercer circuit court in a case of the Southern Railway Company in Kentucky against the Commonwealth, and remanded the case with directions to dismiss the indictment. The Mercer county grand jury indicted the corporation for alleged discrimination in freight rates from Louisville to Harrodsburg. The court says there was no violation of the law. By the reversal Commonwealth's Attorney Owensley is loser to the tune of $3,000. The road had been fined $6,000 and he would have gotten half.

DON'T fail to hear John Fox, Jr., at Walton's Opera House next Tuesday night, under management of Stanford Lyceum Club.

WANTED.—Traveling men, $80 per month salary; $15 per week expense money and commission. Contract one year; $25 cash guaranty required. Address R. W. Judy, Lexington, Ky., box 14.

WE have dissolved partnership and you are earnestly requested to call in and square up your account. This means you if you owe us anything. Baughman & McCormack, Hustonville.

IF you want to sell your farm or town property, place it with the Central Kentucky Real Estate Exchange & Title Co. If your property can be sold, we can sell it for you and can secure as good a price for it as anybody. Our advertising facilities are second to none. Give us a trial.

IN CASEY.—The I. J. representative spent a portion of this week in Casey and returned home with his pockets fairly filled with filthy lucre. He found the people in a prosperous condition generally—the farmers feeling good over their abundant crops and the merchants in high spirits because of an unusually good fall trade. He struck "hog killing time" center and lived high for the short time on spare ribs, hack-bone, sausage etc. On returning Wednesday he counted 17 homes where hogs were being killed or where they had been killed and were hanging up to cool out. Most of the swine slaughtered were heavy fellows, and if Casey county people do not have meat enough to last until "hog killing time" comes again, signs for naught. Big court convenes at Liberty Monday, when the smallest docket in years will be disposed of. It is Judge W. W. Jones and Commonwealth's Attorney N. W. K. Aaron's last term in the "State of Casey" and it looks like they can finish up things in three or four days. The most important case to be tried is that of Reed for killing Browling and a clear case of self defense will more than likely be established. The two were looking with a gun when the tragedy occurred and were the best of friends. Liberty continues to grow steadily and is now a town of no small importance. Green River is lower at this season of the year than it has been for a long time. It is scarcely running in some places. The majority of Casey republicans are sore over Dr. Hunter's receiving the certificate in the Congressional race, but a few of them, including Circuit Clerk Gibbons, are jubilant. He worked hard for the "Gum Shoe Statesman" and we trust he will be remembered when the doctor begins to dispose of his juicy plums.

"If women would pay more attention to their health we would have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctors' prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for."

"In consulting with my druggist he advised me to take a bottle of Wine of Cardui. I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."

Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and is a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures scanty, suppressed, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, whites and leucorrhea. It is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to homes that have been barren for years. All druggists have $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

What Woman Owes To Man.

Mrs. Craigie, known to the literary world as John Oliver Hobbes, may make herself disliked by the advanced woman if she is not careful about her public utterances. At a recent dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London to the Society of Journalists she replied to the toast of "The Ladies." In the course of her reply she said many very charming things about the accomplishments and achievements of woman, and then dilled the edge of her praise by declaring that woman owes all she knows of the arts and nearly everything else, outside of domesticity, to men, citing Angelica Kaufmann, Geo. Sand, George Eliot, Charlotte Bronte and others as examples. She even went so far as to assert that woman would not go into the intellectual professions and public life, but for the support and praise of men.

Warning up to her subject, Mrs. Craigie asserted that "the reigns of great queens have also been the epochs of great historical crises own their celebrity to the classic descriptions written of them by men. Great actresses, great players on musical instruments, great singers, great scholars and great writers were all, without exception, first taught and trained by men." And then, worst of all, in her peroration she said as to woman's position in the world: "We do not understand half of it. We do as a rule as we are told, and when we are commended for doing it pretty well we are just as happy as the men were masters of the situation. We know we are not, which is clever of us, and we do not wish to be, which is cleverer still."

It would take a bold man to utter such sentiments as these, and he would be hauled over the coals more effectively than was Barle Massey by Mrs. Poyser. Fortunately it was not a man in this case. It remains to be seen how the emancipated women, the advanced women, the clubwomen and martial sisters will accept this feminine definition of the feminine relation toward the masculine world. Of course there are women who agree with Mrs. Craigie, but they are the women in humble life, the old-fashioned women, the domestic women, the same spirited women, who usually do as they are told and are glad to have someone tell them what to do. They are the ones clinging to the oaks. But on the other hand there are many who are not clingers and who are reveling in the joys of freedom, the pleasures of the club-rooms and have a doorky of their own. They are not the kind to rest patiently under the accusation of doing as men tell them. It will be interesting to hear from them. What does the Social Economics Club think of John Oliver Hobbes?—Chicago Tribune.

Joseph Chamberlain, in one of his recent tariff reform speeches, told an umbrella story that has not been recorded.

Mr. Chamberlain wished to point out that ignorance was to blame for much of the trouble that had been attached to his tariff reform scheme. He said: "Why my friends, many of my propositions are as logical as my proposition as was a certain farmer, many years ago, of the umbrella."

This farmer had made a journey of some 20 miles on foot to a small town. As he was about to set off for home again a hard rain came up and his host loaned him an umbrella—a novelty at the time—opening it himself so as to save his friend all possible trouble.

A week later the farmer brought the umbrella back. The weather was bright and fine, but he held the instrument open over his head.

"This contrivance," he grumbled, "is more trouble than it is worth. There wasn't a doorway in the village I could get it through, and I had to tether it in the field all week."

John L. Sullivan was asked one day why he had never taken to giving boxing lessons. He replied:

"Well, son, I did try that once. A husky boy was my first and last pupil. He took one lesson from me and went home afterwards a little the worse for wear. When he turned up for the next lesson he said:

"Mr. Sullivan, it was my idea to learn enough pugilism from you to be able to lick a certain young man that I dislike. But I have changed my mind now. If it's all the same to you I'll send this young man down here to take the rest of my lessons for me."

"I," the pugilist continued, "was a little too rough too teach boxing."

A man is too never old to learn, but sometimes he is too young to realize it. —Philadelphia Record.
